Policeman saves sleeping man from burning apartment

Palma—A National Police officer was heralded as a hero last night after he rescued a sleeping young man from a burning apartment in Palma.

The officer was called to the apartment after reports of a fire breaking out.

He repeatedly knocked on the door of the flat but there was no answer.

So he proceeded to knock down the door and rescued the youngster who by that stage had been overcome by the smoke. He carried him out of the burning apartment.

Both the police officer and the young man were treated at the scene for smoke inhalation.

The fire brigade proceeded to extinguish the blaze but there was only one hero yesterday and that was the police officer and his epic rescue.
