

Majorca Daily Bulletin

Friday, June 13 2014

1€ · Founded 1962 · N.15339 · Passeig de Mallorca 9 A,
Palma 07011

OPERATION TO SINK PARTY BOATS

- The Central Government Delegate to the Balearics and the Ministry for Tourism is to launch a joint operation to crack down on party boats.
- Strict controls on security, safety and noise are going to be introduced and enforced on the near 100 party boats in the Balearics: see page 3

A ROYAL TOAST...

- The British Consul-General to Spain, Andrew Gwatkin, hosted a cocktail party in Palma on Wednesday in honour of Queen Elizabeth II's official birthday: pages 8-9

Naked body found off Playa de Palma beach

PALMA. A surfer came across the body of a holiday maker floating in the sea off the beach in the Playa de Palma yesterday morning.

Beach guards were alerted and they brought the naked body ashore where it was covered up and cordoned off until the coroner arrived.

According to emergency sources, the holiday maker had died of a heart attack while swimming, although an autopsy is expected to be carried out over the next few days and that will confirm the cause of death.

Yesterday, the police were also trying to confirm the identity of the holiday maker.