

Majorca Daily Bulletin

Saturday, February 20 2016

1.10€ · Founded 1962 · N.15899 · Passeig de Mallorca 9 A, Palma 07011

Harper Lee, 'To Kill a Mockingbird' author, dies at 89. See Page 13 Inside

Fears over building work on Pollensa promenade

- Hoteliers concerned that work will drag on into the summer season.
- Pedestrianisation of the promenade

should be completed by May but some have their doubts.

● See Pollensa Spotlight Page 4 and 5

Balearic President visits Palma Pictures ahead of showing the new BBC blockbuster: See Full Report on Page Three.

No British cabinet meeting on EU deal tonight, says PM

NEGOTIATIONS on a change to Britain's EU membership terms continued into the evening and a British cabinet meeting would not have been possible last night, Prime Minister David Cameron said on Twitter.

Cameron, locked in talks in Brussels with fellow EU leaders, said a cabinet meeting in London would be held "if and when a deal is done".

A cabinet meeting will be a crucial step for Cameron after any EU deal, as it will formalise the government's support for staying in the EU in an upcoming referendum. Cameron is also expected to announce the date of the referendum, which must be held by the end of next year but has been widely expected to take place in June, after the cabinet meeting. Cameron is expected to campaign for Britain to stay in, but he has announced that the cabinet's collective responsibility will be lifted on the EU issue, and a number of senior figures are expected to campaign for a so-called "Brexit". See Inside