First baby with Zika-related microcephaly born in Spain

● Spain has recorded its first case of a baby born with the microcephaly birth defect associated to the Zika virus, health authorities said yesterday. The mother had been diagnosed with the virus in May and had decided to keep the baby, a spokeswoman for the regional health authorities of Catalonia, where the baby was born, told Reuters.

Majorca's key role in Tour de France win

Palma.—British cyclist Chris Froome powered to victory in the Tour De France on Sunday and Majorca can take some credit for his record-breaking win.

Froome and his team-mates from Team Sky spend the winter months training in the north of the island. In fact, it is one of Froome's main preparations areas for cycling's top event. Froome will be back again on the island this winter for yet another training session. The fact that Froome trains on the island will also help underline the fact that Majorca is a first class place for cycling. Both Sir Bradley Wiggins and Froome will clearly support Majorca's cycling claim to fame.
