Britain imports Spanish lettuces as heat wave hits crops

London.—Lettuce is being flown in from the U.S., and imported from Spain as soaring temperatures increase demand but hit crops across Britain.

Total Produce told The Guardian the company was having to import about 30 percent of its iceberg lettuce and 40 percent of its celery from Spain and Poland when all supplies usually come from the UK at this time of year.

The company said that at this time of the year much of the Spanish crops were destined for the local market so produce was available. Temperatures in Spain are at least five degrees higher than those in Britain at the moment
