

Majorca Daily Bulletin

Thursday, February 28 2019

1.20€ · Founded 1962 · N.16835 · Passeig de Mallorca 9 A,
Palma 07011

CARNIVAL TIME

SEE WHAT'S ON

Britain urges EU countries to match no-deal Brexit citizens' rights pledge

London.—Britain is urging other European Union countries to reciprocate a British pledge to guarantee the rights of EU citizens regardless of whether a Brexit deal is agreed, Prime Minister Theresa May's spokesman said yesterday.

The issue is expected to be discussed during a debate in parliament on May's Brexit negotiations later, with lawmakers calling for Britain to do more to secure promises from other EU states.
See Page Five Inside

Wildfires
rage across Britain in heatwave:
See P2-3

Spain investigates raid on North Korean embassy, computers stolen

Madrid.—A group of unidentified men entered North Korea's embassy in Madrid last Friday, bound and gagged staff, and drove off four hours later with computers, according to a report by the El Confidencial news site, broadly confirmed yesterday by a Foreign Ministry source.

The Interior Ministry officially said police were investigating an incident, but gave no details except to say that a North Korean citizen had been injured and that no one had filed a complaint.

El Confidencial said one of the staff had managed to free herself and escape, alerting neighbours with screams in Korean.

After she told police that staff were being held, gagged, they knocked on the door to investigate, and a man told them everything was fine.

But soon after, two cars left the compound at high speed, one of them carrying the man who had answered the door.

The staff walked out of the building soon after.

Trump and Kim in second summit

North Korean leader Kim Jong Un and Donald Trump met in Hanoi yesterday for their second summit. See Inside.