Foreign residents lead growth in Balearic population

● Palma's population on the first of January was 416,065, an increase of 6,404. Calvia's went back above 50,000, there having been a fall to below 50,000 the previous year. This had an impact on the municipal election this year, as the population figure at the start of 2018 determined how many councillors could be elected. Calvia lost four because of the population decrease. See Inside.

Official census says that the local population grew by 20,000.
