Mark Wright vows to put Mallorca flat right

Palma.—The Only Way is Essex star Mark Wright arrived in Mallorca this week after a marathon 30-hour voyage from Britain. He told his thousands of Instagram followers that he had a “nightmare” problem with builders at his Mallorca apartment and he had travelled to the island to do the job himself with a friend who was also his co-driver on the trip to Mallorca.

On Tuesday he was at his Mallorca apartment ready to start work. He has three weeks to complete the job before the opening of the hotel. Building work obviously can't be carried out once the hotel is open.

Military training for Spanish Princess

Madrid.—Princess Leonor, 17 and the heir presumptive to the Spanish throne, will undergo three years of military training starting in August, Defence Minister Margarita Robles has said.

The Spanish monarchy is struggling to repair its image after a series of scandals over the past decade, mainly linked to the former king Juan Carlos, who abdicated in 2014 in favour of his son, King Felipe.

“As in all parliamentary monarchies, (the heir) has to have a military background and a military career,” Robles said after a cabinet meeting.
