Moroccan leaders call for calm after Spain riots

Madrid.—Moroccan community leaders in the Spanish town of Torre Pacheco called for calm following four nights of clashes between North African migrants and the far-right in some of the worst such unrest in the country in recent times.

Police have detained at least 14 people so far over the clashes that flared up on Friday after an attack last week on a local man in his 60s.

WE TOURISTS

Palma.—The Mallorca Hoteliers Federation (FEHM) launched a campaign this week aimed at the millions of tourists who visit the Balearics every year to thank them for their loyalty and invite them to return to the islands, as well as to highlight the importance of tourism to the Balearic economy despite criticism. The initiative, which has started with around twenty billboards distributed throughout Mallorca, uses positive and welcoming messages in English and German to reinforce the image of the islands as a welcoming and quality destination, as explained on Monday by the president of the federation, Javier Vich.

This campaign comes after the recent signing of the new hospitality agreement, 'the best in Spain' in terms of wages and guarantees for the purchasing power of workers in the sector, as Vich explained in his presentation. The aim of this initiative, according to the federation, is to reinforce the narrative of tourism as an economic driver and generator of well-being in a context of growing social criticism of the Balearic Islands' tourism model.

Aniston's new friend in Mallorca

Palma.—Jennifer Aniston has been enjoying a cruise around Mallorca accompanied by a group of Friends including hypnotherapist Jim Curtis. Media reports suggest that the couple are enjoying a romantic holiday aboard the yacht which has been dubbed the "superyacht to the stars", the Rising Sun. Over the weekend the yacht was moored off Soller and Jennifer posted two photographs of the Soller area on her Instagram site.

Rising Sun is a motor yacht owned by Larry Ellison, CEO of Oracle Corporation, and was last refitted in 2007.
