PEDAL POWER IN MALLORCA

The popularity of Mallorca 312 is such that this year's event, as is the case each year, sold out in a matter of hours. 8,500 cyclists will be taking part on one of three routes, the longest being 312 kilometres; the others are 167 and 225 kilometres. Jan Ullrich, centre, Olympic gold medallist, the first German to win the Tour de France was on hand yesterday for the launch. Photo: Joan Llado.

CRISIS? WHAT CRISIS?

Madrid.— Spanish airlines have increased seat capacity for the April-October peak travel season by 6%, banking on strong tourist interest in the Mediterranean country despite wider concerns over the potential impact on travel plans from a fuel supply crunch linked to the Iran war. The rise in capacity to almost 260 million seats is in line with last year's 5.9% passenger growth, although industry players caution that inflation, geopolitical tension and economic uncertainty could weigh on demand. "The outlook is good," Javier Gandara, president of Spanish airlines association ALA, said.

Spain star Cup fears

The consensus World Cup favourites could be in danger of missing their top attacking option after Spanish forward Lamine Yamal sustained an injury while playing for Barcelona on Wednesday in a La Liga match. According to ESPN, club officials believe Yamal sustained a torn hamstring, though a full prognosis wasn't known until he underwent scans late yesterday.
